ingervity has been accomplished after six years' continuous work in the construction of a working clock every part of which except the springs is made of glass. The constructor is a Bohemian glass polisher named Joseph Bayer, who lives in Theresienthal, and who is now 71 years old.

The plates and pillars which form the framework are of glass, and are polited together with glass screws. The disl plate, bands, shafes and cogwheels are of gless, and glass wedges and pins are used for fastening the various parts of the running gear together. All these parts are ground to the aver-age proportions of the metal parts of other clocks of the same size. The teeth of the cogwheels are cut with minute exactness. Only the balance wheel is heavier and thicker than it would be in heavier and thicker than it would be in an ordinary clock, but it is is shicined so as to properly control the movement of the machine.

Like the clock itself, the key with which it is wound is of glass. The completion for the work was a matter of in-finite pains. Some of the parts had to be made over and over again as often as 40 times before a clock that would go and keep time was produced. The builder sets a price on the finished model of 2,500 marks, or about $625. Labor is chesp in Bohemis. - [New York Sun.
